Welcome to the 59th annual Room to Bloom Celebration! This year, the Auxiliary continues the tradition of Room to Bloom with the spirit of Palm Beach. The festivities begin on Wednesday, April 25 and continue through Friday, May 18. Please join us in support of The Mint Museum.

All parties and events are by paid reservation, and filled on a first-come, first-serve basis. We encourage you to respond promptly, as several of the events have limited capacity.

We would especially like to thank all of our patrons, party hosts, committee members and Auxiliary volunteers for this year’s event. Please know that your support, as well as the support of our generous sponsors, enables The Mint Museum to enhance its educational programs and acquire new works for the permanent collections.

We look forward to seeing you during our Room to Bloom Celebration!

Celerie Kemble

Celerie Kemble’s childhood was in many ways a design tutorial spent around construction sites, antique stores, and in the unique homes designed by her mother and founder of Kemble Interiors Mimi McMakin. A graduate of Harvard, Celerie worked briefly in film production before quickly succumbing to what she calls a compulsion for design and the creation of thoughtful interiors that “put the person in the place.”

Partnered with her mother in Palm Beach, Celerie established a design office in New York City and has spent the past fifteen years cultivating a portfolio of much publicized residential and commercial interiors that are as unique and diverse as her international clientele. The office has grown from a humble 3/4-size office apartment in the West Village to a vibrant and dynamic studio on 30th Street.

Known for her candor, humor and approachable design advice, Celerie published her first monograph Celerie Kemble: To Your Taste in 2008 and most recently authored Black and White: And A Bit in Between, which was released by Clarkson-Potter on November 1, 2011. Celerie has recently appeared in J. Crew’s ‘Real Women’ ads and alongside industry leaders in Benjamin Moore’s ‘Experts’ campaign. She has created to-the-trade fabrics with F. Schumacher & Co. as well as faux leather and technical surfaces with Valley Forge.

A collection of floor coverings with Merida Meridian will be introduced in the spring of 2012 followed by the debut collection of wall coverings for F. Schumacher & Co. in August 2012.

Michael Boodro has said Kemble Interiors “incorporates the serendipitous and the sentimental without losing clarity or strength.” The firm’s success is a reflection of Celerie’s quirky design ethos, which balances the aesthetic integrity of the project with the needs and personality of the client. To create a successful interior, the process must feel well managed, the client considered, and the budget respected. “In life and design, it is not perfection you should be after. There is beauty in the faded and worn, the well loved, and the sentimental... After all, life has seams. Your home should be like a loosely woven fabric of desires, memories, practical notions, and even compromises.” – Celerie Kemble
1. Getaway to the Breakers Hotel and Spa
Enjoy a weekend in Palm Beach at one of America’s most legendary resort destinations, including dinner at one of the famous Breakers restaurants, lunch on Worth Avenue, and a personal tour of the Flagler Museum.

2. Painting by Beverly Edens
A resident of Charlotte, Beverly pursued her passion for art by studying the Old Masters and disciples of Tonalism, as well as studying with modern masters. She has succeeded in creating work that invokes a sense of mystery of place and is now a part of important collections on the East Coast.

3. Belk Stores $1,000 Shopping Spree
Shop 'til you drop at a department store rooted in timeless values and a rich heritage. Belk is committed to delivering fashion and today’s top brands to the modern Southern woman. Enjoy using your $1,000.00 gift card towards anything in the store. There are no exclusions and it can be used at any time.

4. Painting by Nancy B. Westfall
Atlanta artist Nancy B. Westfall’s work is her journal in paint. Her sense of humor and personality show through her painterly brush strokes and eclectic images.

5. Meredith Jackson Freshwater Pearl Necklace
Meredith, a resident of Charlotte, is a trained interior designer and each of her jewelry collections reflects Meredith’s love of color, texture and artistic beauty.

6. Decorative Piece from Gray Walker Interiors
Gray brings a fresh, unexpected approach to the classic Southern interior in which she grew up. She has created a signature style nationally noted as “the mix mastered.” Gray has the unique ability to combine European antiques, chinoiserie accents and 1940’s glamour with modern lines creating a classic yet comfortable sophistication.

7. Painting by Jennifer Levine
Jennifer works with oils, watercolors, charcoal, pen and inks, and printmaking. Her style ranges from abstract interpretations of still life and landscapes in very large form, to playing with geometric forms through hazy layers below and on the surface.
8. Two Tickets to Music with Friends Concert during the 2012 Season
Music with Friends is a private party and intimate concert that creates a memorable evening. You will enjoy cocktails and fabulous food among friends and then have the opportunity to listen to world-class music up close and personal at the McGlohon Theater in Uptown Charlotte.

9. Pen and Ink Home Rendering by Saundra Hardy Snyder with Frame by Art Aspects
Saundra's works can be found in many private and corporate collections throughout the United States. Saundra has also created the beautiful renderings you have seen of the homes in the Room to Bloom brochures. Art Aspects will frame a rendering of your own in your choice of their upscale, quality products.

10. Landscape Package from AK Nurseries, Laura Durden Garden Design and Morgan Landscape Group
AK Nurseries provides only the highest quality American and English boxwoods to the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. Laura Durden Garden Design specializes in the design of private gardens with a sense of space. Morgan Landscape Group has been creating vibrant gardens and relaxing retreats in the neighborhoods and communities throughout the Charlotte area for decades. This talented trio will work to get your landscape headed in a beautiful direction.

11. Pencil Portrait by Igor Babailov.
Igor will create a pencil portrait character study in one sitting to take place in December 2012. Russian born, Igor is a renowned portrait and figurative artist, scholar and spokesperson for the traditional school of classical art. He has painted numerous commissioned portraits of world leaders, celebrities, social and business elite. Donated by Elizabeth Pitts and Quinerly Cowden for Portraits South.

12. Kara Campbell, Ltd. Jewelry
Kara specializes in custom-designed and classic fine jewelry that is distinctive, elegant, and personal. Kara has relationships with many of the most skilled craftsmen utilizing the highest quality materials. She has offered her clients superior quality, irresistible prices, and outstanding service and advice for nearly 20 years.

13. Painting by Windy O’Conner Fine Art
Windy’s work is driven primarily by her love of color and the feel of paint. Windy views each of her paintings as an attempt to disconnect from the reality of an object or landscape through traditional representation and abstraction.

14. Decorative Piece from Abode Home Design
Abode houses a retail showroom of transitional and vintage home furnishings and accessories. Abode offers a fresh approach that specializes in upholstered furniture, lighting case pieces and selected artwork.
15. Getaway to High Hampton Inn and Country Club
Since 1922, the 1400-acre High Hampton Inn & Country Club, surrounded by the ethereal beauty of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Cashiers, North Carolina and shimmering lakes and streams, has been hosting generation after generation of guests who return time and again to renew, rejuvenate and reconnect amidst nature’s playground. Enjoy a weekend stay with the full American plan and use of all resort amenities.

16. “Refresh in a Flash” by Kathryn Dixon Interiors
Discover what a trained pair of eyes can do for your home in four hours. Kathryn can artfully re-arrange your bookshelves, re-arrange your furniture & accessories, hang pictures, as well as offer clever tips, inspiration, and specific design recommendations.

17. Decorative Piece from Mrs. Howard
Phoebe Howard’s penchant for creating stylish spaces has evolved into her own brand of decorating and she is known for her fresh take on traditional style. Her decorating projects are a veritable library of design inspiration and have been published in Elle Decor, House Beautiful, Coastal Living, Cottage Living, Southern Accents, InStyle and Traditional Home, among others.

18. Painting by Jenny Fuller
A Charlotte resident, Jenny began to paint in an attempt to create beauty. As a native North Carolinian, she has always been inspired by the natural world. Painting is an attempt for Jenny to understand the radiance, color, shadow and wonder that surrounds each of us.

19. Twenty Classes from Hilliard Studio Method
Hilliard Studio Method offers a cutting edge and innovative approach to achieving dramatic results safely and effectively. This results-driven workout elongates the body, improving overall strength, flexibility and posture.

20. Painting by Selena Beaudry from Hidell Brooks Gallery
Selena’s inspired work has been exhibited in galleries throughout the nation. Hidell Brooks Gallery specializes in the work of well-established and solidly-emerging artists working in a contemporary narrative and figurative vein.

21. Decorative Piece from Lisa Sherry Interieurs.
Lisa is a purposeful, committed and creative rule breaker, especially when it comes to interior design. While she respects and understands traditional design precepts, Lisa believes great interiors bend and twist and reinterpret the so-called rules.

Belk has been meeting the evolving shopping needs of customers since our founding in 1888. The South’s “hometown store” has grown from humble beginnings into the nation’s largest privately-owned mainline department store company with more than 300 fashion stores across 16 Southern states offering the best in Modern.Southern.Style.

Twenty-six-year-old William Henry Belk opened a small bargain store in 1888 in Monroe, N.C. His brother, Dr. John M. Belk, joined him as a partner in the business and together they expanded the company throughout the South. The late John M. Belk and Thomas M. “Tom” Belk, sons of William Henry Belk, led the company for more than 50 years following their father’s death in 1952. Their efforts transformed outmoded downtown Belk stores into expanded fashion stores located in shopping centers and malls across the South.

Today’s third generation of family leadership is represented by the sons of Tom Belk. Thomas M. “Tim” Belk, Jr. is the company’s chairman and chief executive officer and John R. “Johnny” Belk is president and chief operating officer. H.W. McKay Belk, who previously served as president and chief merchandising officer, serves on the Belk, Inc. board of directors.

Belk is taking bold steps to reinforce its position as the South’s fashion leader. Over the past seven years, we completed two major store acquisitions and established our own fine jewelry business. Additionally, we re-launched a greatly expanded Belk.com website and are connecting with customers via social media. Belk recently adopted a new “Modern. Southern. Style.” brand identity to replace the former “Belk B” logo used since 1967. Today, we are investing millions of dollars each year in store improvements, information technology, eCommerce, merchandising systems, marketing and other strategic initiatives to support our continued growth and success.

Belk continues its rich heritage of community involvement and philanthropy by contributing 2.5 percent of pre-tax profits each year to support charitable efforts in three major focus areas: education, breast cancer awareness and research, and community strengthening. In 2011, our Belk Charity Sale events raised more than $10 million for nonprofits throughout the South, and our inaugural Belk Bowl at Bank of America Stadium attracted 58,000 college football fans to Charlotte and gained national media exposure for our company and city.

The future is bright for Belk as we work to fulfill our vision “for the modern, Southern woman to count on Belk first . . . for her, for her family, for life.”
We proudly support the Mint Museum of Charlotte and its 2012 Room to Bloom Celebration.

It all started with a juice stand... At the bright young age of 21, an irreverent and enterprising New York socialite named Lilly McKim eloped with publishing mogul and citrus grove heir Peter Pulitzer. Ditching the city for sunny Florida, the couple embarked on a glamorous and colorful life in Palm Beach. In need of a day job, Lilly opened a simple juice stand in 1959. She soon transformed her citrus-stained clothing into a line of brightly colored shift dresses in an array of cheery prints. Her designs quickly became the unofficial uniform of America’s splashy resort towns.

Fast forward more than fifty years. Lilly Pulitzer’s® distinctive prints and colors continue to delight and inspire customers to lead a colorful life.

For more than 15 years Belk has enjoyed the privilege of being a key department store to offer Lilly Pulitzer fashions including ladies, children’s, accessories and footwear in 17 stores across 6 states. Much like Lilly, Belk is friendly, fashionable and colorful with a mission to satisfy the modern Southern lifestyle like no one else. Together Lilly and Belk have found a sweet spot in the Southeast as their friendship has blossomed over the years. Lilly’s assortment certainly inspires Belk customers to lead a colorful life!

The Surrealists were rebels, searching for new forms of artistic expression. They celebrated chance, spontaneity, and the uncanny as they explored the worlds of dreams and the subconscious. On February 11, 2012 the Mint Museum Uptown opened Surrealism and Beyond, a suite of three fascinating exhibitions that explore Surrealism and its legacy. Not only is it the first time that the Mint has presented an exhibition on this topic, but it also marks the first time that a project of this scope has ever occurred in this entire region of the country. All three exhibitions have been organized by The Mint Museum and two are accompanied by beautiful illustrated catalogues. Such an ambitious undertaking would not have been possible without the generous support of the Mint Museum Auxiliary.

The first exhibition, Double Solitaire: The Surreal Worlds of Kay Sage and Yves Tanguy brings together the haunting dream landscapes of Tanguy, one of the original members of the Surrealists, and his American wife Sage, to explore the influence that each had upon the other’s art. It is the first show ever to do so, and it has already received positive reviews in the New York Times and the Boston Globe while on view at its previous two venues.

The final exhibition in the suite, Gordon Onslow Ford: Visionary and Voyager, is an intimate retrospective of the cosmic abstractions of Gordon Onslow Ford, a British-American artist who joined the Surrealists in Paris in the late 1930s. He later moved to this country, settling in the 1950s in California, where the landscape, light, and his experiences with Eastern art and philosophy inspired a new direction in his work. The show is drawn entirely from the collection of his late sister Elisabeth, and her son Max, who lives in Asheville, and is a testament to their close family relationship.

Be sure not to miss these three remarkable exhibitions that were made possible through the Auxiliary’s dedication and ongoing support!
Thornton Dial is a keen observer of the human spectacle and its narratives of corruption and moral strength, folly and triumph. As an artist, he has spent the last two decades exploring the truth of American history and culture in all its complexities and contradictions. This exhibition presents a major survey of Dial’s work—an epic gathering of over fifty large-scale paintings, sculptures, and wall assemblages that address the most compelling issues of our time.

Hard Truths: The Art of Thornton Dial has been made possible with generous support from Wells Fargo Private Bank. Exhibition organized by the Indianapolis Museum of Art.

A fully-illustrated scholarly catalogue will accompany the exhibition.

QC Exclusive
QC Exclusive covers a wide gamut of topics for both men and women alike; many are in the luxury niche; many are human interest or cultural features, but all the stories we tell are told in relateable ways through solid writing and photography. Intertwined amongst our Southern roots and heritage are regional, national, and international topics and trends. There’s a refreshing dichotomy within the pages of our magazine and website because you are just as likely to find a fashion spread showcasing French or Italian brands like Chanel or Ferragamo as you are to find a spread on Southeastern wing shooting or fly fishing.

Over the next two decades, the collection grew slowly and was dependent entirely upon local donations. Then, in the mid 1950’s, the Museum was to benefit from the efforts of a dedicated group of community volunteers. With the founding of the Women’s Auxiliary, as it was known then, a long roster of members have since contributed thousands of volunteer hours to generate funds to support the museum and its collection. The Auxiliary has a long and celebrated history with The Mint Museum.

Today, the collection at the Mint Museum numbers over 31,000 items. The Mint Museum Auxiliary has been a major purchasing power behind the collection. The Auxiliary has acquired thousands of artwork for the Museum that includes paintings, ceramics, costumes, sculptures, crafts, and works on paper. It has been a rich journey that began in 1960 with the Auxiliary’s first art acquisition, Portrait of Sir Andrew Cherry, by the English painter Frederick Richard Lee.

The most important purchase of 1960 was In the Glen by American painter John La Farge. In the 1970’s, the Auxiliary purchased 112 items including Storage Jar. This piece dates to 2200 BC and represents the oldest Chinese piece in the collection. Also in this decade, members of the Auxiliary founded The Mint Museum’s costume collection which now numbers over 10,000 items.

In the 1980’s, the Auxiliary purchased a variety of artwork including works from some of North Carolina’s most important potters, and a work by Harvey Littleton, known as the Father of North Carolina Glass. Also in 1985 the Auxiliary created an acquisitions endowment, nicknamed EMMA, the Endowment for Mint Museum Acquisitions. The purpose of this endowment is to acquire works of art consistent with the curatorial goals of the Mint Museum in accordance with the Auxiliary’s procedures. The funds are raised through the Auxiliary’s annual Fall Fundraiser and the Room To Bloom spring celebration. The funds are currently managed by the Foundation for the Carolinas.

In the 1990’s, the Auxiliary purchased over $200,000 worth of Spanish Colonial Art and acquired Nature’s Rushing Force which was painted in 1868 and depicts the North Carolina wilderness.

Over the years, the Auxiliary has contributed greatly to the wealth of the museum’s permanent collection. The funds generated by the Auxiliary members have touched nearly every area within the Museum’s collection. The partnership between the Mint Museum and The Mint Museum Auxiliary has been rich, strong, and beneficial to both the Museum and the city of Charlotte.
